

6516207046.txt

What has become of the days where companies try and compete for my business, rather than tell me what I can and can not listen to. XM Radio has become a wonderful asset in my life and could not imagine my life without it. I suggest that these broadcasters look back at history and remember what this great country of ours was founded on. Instead of trying to stifle innovation they should try and enhance and evolve their product. XM Radio is unlike anything else available and should not be punished for their strong commitment to supplying America with a unique and extremely enjoyable form of entertainment. There are many pressing issues that our country's elected officials should be focusing their attention toward and this issue is not one of them